Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing to appeal the decision to withdraw my NSFAS funding for the 2024 academic year, Semester 1. My student number is 12345678. Unfortunately, due to unforeseen personal circumstances, I could not meet the academic requirements. However, I would like to provide context for these challenges and request reconsideration.

During the last semester, I faced significant health issues that severely impacted my academic performance. Despite my best efforts to keep up with my studies, these circumstances were beyond my control. I have attached supporting documents, including medical certificates and a letter from my healthcare provider, which provide evidence of my situation.

I am fully committed to improving my performance and have implemented steps such as seeking academic support from tutors and creating a more structured study schedule. I am determined to achieve better results in the upcoming term and prove my capability to succeed in my studies.

Thank you for considering my appeal. I sincerely hope for a favourable response so that I can continue my studies with NSFAS support.

Sincerely,
John Albert
