

COACHING POD: HOW TO SURVIVE AND THRIVE AS AN INDEPENDENT CONTRACTOR THROUGH COVID-19 AND BEYOND?

Survive and thrive

The key challenge that will be explored and unpacked through this coaching pod is “how to survive and thrive as an independent contractor during COVID-19 and beyond?” Under the guidance of the pod coach, you will contribute with questions, possible solutions, challenges and interaction with other pod members.

In sharing with others, you are also purposefully contributing to the upliftment of other pod members who share your quest to survive and thrive through COVID-19 and beyond as an independent contractor.

Who is this course for?

This coaching pod is for independent contractors who are isolated, particularly during COVID-19 lockdown, desperately trying to figure out how to survive and thrive. You clearly understand your role as an independent facilitator, consultant and/or coach, but who is YOUR coach? This coaching pod is your connection to an experienced coach and peers who share the same challenge and who are committed to finding solutions together by navigating the challenges as a pod.

How does the coaching pod work?

A coaching pod is a unique approach to complex problem solving and decision making using radical collaboration in a diverse team of people who share the same challenge. An experienced coach leverages peer learning in the pod to define the root cause of the problem pod members share. Individual pod members will also define their own problems. pod members then explore possible solutions to the problems together, sharing insights and experiences. Each team member defines clear personal actions at the end of each pod that are then implemented. Insights are journaled for sharing and review at the next pod.

Thinking partner and small breakaway pod conversations enables every pod member to contribute actively.

How will you benefit?

By sharing and applying your pod insights in real time, you will quickly make decisions and test them for optimum impact.

In doing so you will:

- Consciously self-regulate your pandemic brain
- Use purposeful conversations to engage calmly and consciously to define and solve your real problems
- Use radical collaboration to enhance innovation in reimagining your business
- Develop empathy and curiosity for enhanced goal directedness and collective creativity
- Develop new and more expansive perspectives and thinking capabilities
- Try new things including what lies out of your comfort zone
- Create real and sustained personal growth
- Gain confidence and skills to reimagine and reinvent your business and your role
- Develop amazing networks for life

Duration

You will reimagine your role, your business strategy and business model through three, two-hour coaching pod conversations held weekly.

Sign up now

Are you ready? If you are, join our coaching pod and create social and psychological safety to reimagine the things you really care about.

Price

R3 606 incl. VAT